

Versapak Sustainability Strategy

As 2016 and 2017 will look to be a challenging year of new faces in prominent positions with different views on our global ecology, we need to make even more effort to shape the landscape of the future. It may not be a future for us anymore, but for our children. We want to give these children a good foundation to thrive and our efforts today will pave the way for the businesses of the future. It's not enough for companies to think about their environmental impact only, they must think about what they can do to encourage their customers, employees and how we can all work together when tackling environmental challenges. Our goal is to retrain staff, encourage customers and ensure suppliers join us on our journey to a better future by providing the right framework and initiatives for sustainable success. In a world where throwaway is now frowned upon, we can be proud that Versapak is a company that manufactures reusable bags and pouches for its customers. And that everything we do is designed to encourage people to save precious natural resources and prevent wastage. I am delighted to set about our strategy and plan into the Versapak Sustainability Initiatives and we will continue to grow through our renewed efforts to be more responsible.
